

What Should People be Careful About At Corporate Parties?

Question: What should people be careful about at corporate parties that are attended by both men and women?

Answer: Obviously, one must make sure that the food is kosher, and one must also make sure that the environment is kosher, especially if both men and women will be at the party. There have to be careful guidelines set to separate the genders, and these should not be broken.

In particular, if alcoholic beverages are being served, one must be more careful.

In general, the proper atmosphere should be maintained to be consistent with our values and hashkafos.
